

HR's investments in leadership failing to pay off

May 25, 2015

While almost one quarter of HR budgets are spent on leadership, only one third of HR leaders are confident that these investments in leadership are paying off, according to a CEB research report.

It also found there has been a 20 per cent jump in the number of HR leaders who would replace members of their senior leadership team (if they had the